

My name is Yeonhee. I am currently working at The Prince's Trust as Youth Development Lead in Birmingham. I am supporting young people to build their confidence and provide more opportunities to create a better future through employment, education, and enterprise. I have more than 4 years of experience working for youth and adult literacy education.

I began to work as a project assistant for the Korean National Commission for UNESCO(KNCU) in Kiramuruzi, Rwanda and I implemented teacher training workshops and distributing textbooks for facilitators and adult learners on informal education. In addition, I advised as programme coordinator of the Korea International Cooperation Agency (KOICA) to volunteers about their projects with schools and local NGOs on formal education in rural areas, in Rwanda.

I studied for a master's degree in Education and Development at the University of East Anglia. I am interested in social practice theory as applied to local level literacy programmes and women's empowerment in Rwanda. Therefore, I wrote my dissertation about Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment in Rwanda: Exploring Adult Literacy Policy, Programme, and Practice.
